

HOMESPUN DEVOTIONS

By PAULINE E. SPRAY

Housework often seems futile. By the time the dishes are done and the kitchen cleaned, it is nearly time to get another meal. Hours are spent in cooking and baking.

We sit down to the table and in half an hour what is there to show for all our labor? We scrub the floors on our hands and knees and in less time than it takes to tell about it, the linoleum is tracked up again. And dusting! Where all the dirt seeps in, no one knows. Often we throw up our hands in despair and cry out, "What's the use?"

Troubles envelop us. Trials oppress. We fall short of our ideals or intentions.

We blunder and make mistakes. Sometimes poor health is our lot for a season. Financial reverses come. Yet, through it all, we need not throw up our hands in despair or be cast down.

There is hope! God is our helper! He is the strength of our lives. We can proclaim triumphantly, "My hope is in God," instead of helplessly whining, "What's the use?"

Prayer: O God, Thou art my hope! I shall not be cast down, but I shall be at rest in Thee for Thou art the source of my strength and peace. Amen.
