Golden Gloves Tournament to be held

GRAND RAPIDS — A number of young boxers from the Ravenna, Sand Lake and Rockford areas are training nightly for the big West Michigan Golden Gloves boxing tournament starting Jan. 31 at the Grand Rapids Civic Auditorium.

John Mason, former Golden Gloves champion, is directing the large Sand Lake delegation at the old Hardware building on Main St. He's working with several young hopefuls from Rockford.

Young amateur boxers from the Ravenna area are receiving their free instruction from Jack Crown, new in the Golden Gloves training circles this year.

The West Michigan boxing tournament continues Feb.

CB base antennas

Before we get you a-modulating from the home base and have you a-jaw jacking with the convoy, best we get your ears a-tuned in.

In other words, all you CB radio operators with a home base station need to safely and properly install an outdoor antenna to give you proper reception.

The antenna is probably the most important part of your home base unit for two reasons. Faulty installation will reduce considerably the distance over which you can transmit and receive messages. But more importantly, an improperly installed antenna can cause serious injury or death to the would-be CB'er.

2, 8 with the finals booked Feb. 19. The state finals will be at the same site March 4-5.

As in previous tournaments, champions will be decided in 11 weight classes. Each class is divided into novice and open divisions.

A novice is a boxer who has not won six bouts before the start of the tourney or has not reached his 20th birthday before Jan. 1. An open boxer is one over 20 or has won more than six bouts.

The 22 champions of the West Michigan tournament will go against the champs from Saginaw, Flint and Lansing in the state finals.
